

KEPE Inductive Acoustic Wave Therapy System

We want you to experience our KEPE — the quietest, most powerful, reliable, and easy-to-use extracorporeal shock wave therapy (ESWT) system for the veterinary practice!

The KEPE is safe, no need for sterility and possible secondary infection from contamination from a joint injection. There is no need to shave or to use local anesthesia on the treatment area.

KRISTINE ATKINS, LVT, WOODLAND RUN EQUINE VETERINARY FACILITY

"The KEPE is the easiest shockwave treatment I've ever used, and it's so quiet, with no hisses or horse startling noises. We've been treating horses for decades with almost every shockwave machine out there, and the KEPE is far superior in usability, treatment and patient acceptance!"

There is no prolonged recovery time or bandaging required. The treatments can be done on the farm with response in 7 – 10 days.

Our evolution of this new, minimally invasive, treatment modality aids in healing injured backs, many lower limb lameness – especially tendons and ligaments in the horse.

- Quietness—the only noise is the rhythmic pulse of the waves, well tolerated by most horses (and dogs) with no need for sedation, and NO other sudden noises!
- Easy To Use—one person can easily transport, set up and use the KEPE, and it comes with a carrying case!
- Intuitive Interface—the user interfaces allows easy selection of recommended protocols based on anatomy, and customized protocols can be saved for later use!

THE KEPE TREATS DOGS TOO both Acute & Chronic Conditions

As with horses, the KEPE provides the same benefits to dogs! With optimized treatment protocols for small, medium and large dogs, this treatment modality can improve acute and chronic canine conditions! The KEPE is easy to use by one person, and the dogs tolerate the treatment well, with no need for sedation once properly introduced.
